- B. The End-User shall not perform or attempt to perform data linking between the Publication and any other dataset containing microdata.
- C. The End-User shall not alter, modify or in any other fashion change the Publication, and may not do any other act which might diminish the value of the Publication, in a manner which would cast aspersion on the State or on the Central Bureau of Statistics.
- D. The End-User may quote from the Publication on condition that the source is attributed to the Central Bureau of Statistics.
- E. The End-User may make use of the Publication on more than one computer in his/her possession.
- F. The End-User may make one back-up copy of the Publication, and may copy the Publication onto those computers in his/her possession as is necessary to make use of the Publication in accordance with this License.
- G. Except as otherwise stated above, the End-User may not copy the Publication, give the Publication to another party for the other party's use, distribute the Publication to the public or communicate the Publication to the public- whether by means of a digital medium, whether in writing or whether by means of a computer network, including the Internet.
